

United Fund Failure Fear Sounded Today

Services May be Curtailed

Directors and executives of charities and organizations supported by the United Fund today expressed fears that many of the groups may be unable to function unless the drive produces positive results immediately.

The campaign, which has a goal just short of $100,000, has now reached the $51,000 mark.

THE BOYS CLUB, Desert Museum, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Welfare and Friendly Aid warned that their programs would be drastically reduced if the United Fund produces no more financial assistance than has now been accrued.

"If no more money is obtained than 50 per cent of our quota from the United Fund," Boys Club President Val Blatz declared, and if we comply with the regulations of the Community Chest that we solicit no funds outside the drive, we will have to close the Boys Club by July 1."

BLATZ JOINED in the statement by Boys Club Director Ray Lockwood, did not say that the club directors would ask a separate drive for the organization but his statement did leave the door fully open if such an emergency should arise.

The club is the third largest recipient in the United Fund campaign, scheduled to receive $14,939. Only larger donations are scheduled for the American Red Cross ($24,904) and the Youth Center ($15,425).

Dr. C. E. Smith, director of the Desert Museum — which is scheduled for support in the amount of $10,000 from the Fund — said that the more than 10,000 children who use the museum's facilities each year would be hardest hit by failure of the Fund campaign.

"THE CHANCES are very good that we would have to curtail the services that have attracted 50,000 people into the museum since Nov. 1, 1958," he said. "Included in this number are slightly over 10,000 children who stand to lose the intellectual stimulation provided by the museum and its moment."

"Any curtailment of funds," declared Toby Curtis of the Boy Scout District, "would affect the entire scouting program in a ratio to the reduction in funds." Boy Scouts are to receive $6,043.

Slashes in professional staff in the Desert Sky Girl Scout Council was predicted by Council President Mrs. Albert Keck — "if the budget is cut."

"IT WOULD seriously hamper the development of our camp program for local girls at Idyllwild and it would also seriously affect the training of volunteer adults who actually handle the training of our most precious product — the See UNITED FUND, Page 3A

BOYS TO HEAR RESPONSIBILITY TO GOVERNMENT

All junior and senior boys of Palm Springs High School will attend a special assembly Thursday to hear discussions on their responsibility to the government in regard to the Selective Service program."

The students will be addressed by representatives of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps in a program scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at the high school auditorium.

Kidnap Charge To Be Refuted

NEW DELHI — The Dalai Lama will make his first public appearance in India Saturday and thereby deny Chinese Communist and Soviet charges he was "kidnapped" and is being held under duress, it was announced today.

The charges were repeated Tuesday night in Peiping by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and the Communist-sponsored Panchen Lama.

TWO TAIPEI newspapers, the United Daily News and the China News, meanwhile reported major fighting in the Chinese province of Tsinghai adjoining Tibet and said tribesmen there had revolted against Peiping.

The China News, quoting Nationalist intelligence reports, said, "The vast desert frontier is burning with freedom fire." It reported anti-Communist elements had cut the main highway leading from the Peking capital of Huai to Lhasa with the Red army.

Weather

Desert Area Forecast: Variable high cloudiness today through Thursday but mostly sunny both days. Gusts west and northwesterly winds reaching 30-45 miles an hour at times. Highs today 72-82 upper valleys, 80-90 lower valleys. Yesterday's high 97, low 54.

DULLES RESIGNATION OFFICIAL

Past, Present U.S. Leaders Laud Dulles

'Hard to Replace' Keynote in Comment By Top Americans

United Press International Comment on the resignation of John Foster Dulles as secretary of state:

Herbert Hoover — "The resignation of Secretary Dulles is the culmination of a great tragedy to the American people. We have had many great secretaries of state. History will rank Secretary Dulles among the highest of them — and in my view, the highest of them all."

The Advanced Research Projects Agency of the Department of Defense said that analysis of radio beacon and telemetry radio signals from Discoverer II received since 4 p.m. (p.s.t.) Tuesday "indicates the capsule did eject from the satellite as predicted."

APRA SAID THAT several reports of visual sighting and radio contact from the capsule were being carefully checked to determine the probable landing area in the polar region.

Discoverer II's capsule, capable of carrying living organisms in space, failed to eject on radio command from the ground Tuesday because of a malfunction in a timing device.

CHAIRMAN J. WILLIAM Fullbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — "A sad and terrible tragedy — both a personal tragedy and a tragedy to the country . . . He'll be hard to replace."

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan of the House Foreign Affairs Committee — "Dulles has evoked our sincerest admiration for his valiant fight against his illness. He has won our gratitude for his selfless dedication and devotion to the public welfare. I know that he has the heartfelt prayers and good wishes of all Americans at this moment."

THE EXPECTED but disappointing fact that the scientists could not on the first attempt recover the 160-pound capsule in the air or on the ocean's surface meant only that it probably was lost to the "Polar bears and icebergs" of the Arctic.

It was failure of the time mechanism to operate in conjunction with the ground signal to trigger ejection that resulted in abandonment of the planned "aerial catch."

One means of finding out about the automatic ejection apparently was noted by a slight shift in the orbiting satellite's flight. This would be caused by a sudden dropping of the capsule, scientists said.

Arrested in Palm Springs were Harold Jourdan, 28; William Lorin Hill, 23; Antonio Valasquez, 20; Tony Marquez, 18, and a 16-year-old Palm Springs High School youth.

The 16-year-old, Jourdan, Valasquez and Marquez all had marijuana in their possession or homes at the time of the arrests, the officers said.

OF THE NINE local warrants, five were picked up in Palm Springs, two were already in custody, one was arrested in Orange County and the other was arrested in Riverside.

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Three persons were killed today and four others seriously hurt in a flaming collision on the Santa Ana Freeway involving a gasoline truck and a double trailer, another truck and six automobiles.

A small car, police said, cut in front of the southbound gasoline truck, causing it to veer across the highway and through a chain link divider to the northbound lanes where it hit head-on a northbound Cadillac.

All three dead, burned beyond recognition were in the Cadillac which became a mass of twisted molten metal. A massive traffic jam resulted during the morning rush hours.

About 8,000 gallons of gasoline spilled from the wrecked tanker and burst into flames.

U.S. Jubilant Over Space Capsule Drop

Radio Signals Reveal Ejection In Polar Region

U.S. VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. — American scientists announced jubilantly today they apparently had achieved a new space triumph with the automatic ejection of the space capsule from the Discoverer II satellite.

The Advanced Research Projects Agency of the Department of Defense said that analysis of radio beacon and telemetry radio signals from Discoverer II received since 4 p.m. (p.s.t.) Tuesday "indicates the capsule did eject from the satellite as predicted."

FOURTEEN OFFICERS conducted a local narcotics raid in Palm Springs last night, at the same time as more than 20 narcotics suspects were being taken into custody throughout the county. The raids followed secret Grand Jury indictments of 28 Riverside County men. Pictured above, Tony Marquez is taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Ray Canova, and in the Marquez home officers reported finding the biggest haul of the evening, including marijuana growing in a planter. At right, Lt. COUNTY-WIDE DOPE RAIDS NET FIVE ARRESTS HERE

MECHEN, 25, was arrested in Brea by Orange County authorities; Calvin Collidge Sandage, 24, was already in custody in Riverside County jail on automobile theft charges, and a 17-year-old Palm Springs youth is in Riverside Juvenile Hall, charged with possession of dangerous drugs.

The local raid was pulled off at 12:15 last night and ended investigations that have been under way for more than six months. The balance of those arrested were taken into custody throughout the county and included the following men:

JERRY C. McELYEAE, 20; Al bert C. Vellaneua, 19; Berry L. Yadon, 21; Lloyd A. Mackey, 23; Frank R. Pino, 18, and James

Coy Hayes, 20, all of Rubidoux; Jack R. Smith, 24, La Sierra; Ralph Garcia, 28, Riverside; Ruben R. Vasquez, 20, Corona, and Charles Treble, 26, Indio. One man, Everett L. Jackson, 25, was served with his warrant in the state prison at Chino.

McElyea, Vellaneua, Yadon, and Hayes were arrested on conspiracy charges; Pino, Smith, Jackson, Garcia, Vasquez and Treble were charged with sale, administering, or transporting narcotics; and Mackey was charged with violation of parole, having a prior narcotics arrest.

BALTON, of San Bernardino, suffered a seriously fractured leg. Police reported that Balton was guiding a car driven by a co-worker into a carport preparatory to waxing the vehicle. The driver, Isaiah Williams Jr., 20, of 500 East Arenas, told officers his foot slipped off the brake pedal and hit the accelerator.

The car lunged forward, pinning Balton against a low brick wall, officers said.

Atlas Killed After Wobbly Start Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The 5,000-mile range Atlas ICBM got only 1,000 feet off the ground Tuesday before it was destroyed, spewing flying metal and flaming gas above the heads of missile workers.

Officials said no one was hurt. The range safety officer pushed the "kill" button about 30 seconds after the first combat-type Atlas left the launching pad here on a wobbly start.

The 100-ton rocket exploded in a flash of flame.

"Most of the guys around me crawled under trucks," said one missile worker in the area where flaming fragments fell back to the

'Requiem' Presentation Is One of Music Highlights

By GEORGE LAINE
It doesn't pay to judge musical performances in advance.
On Sunday, for instance, some 800 persons stayed away from the presentation of Verdi's "Requiem" by the Music Society of Palm Springs and only 300 heard what I feel was one of the better moments in music for the Village this season.

PERHAPS THERE shouldn't be too much criticism of the persons who stayed away; I had sized up the program in advance as a sample of the most arrogant presumption. It seemed hardly possible for a chorus a third of the size of the required number, an orchestra of the same limiting size and four relatively unheralded soloists to cope with Verdi's masterpiece.

In fact, I had even thought of the possibility of inventing a "previous engagement" and attempting to prevail on someone else to sit through what I mistakenly felt would be a horrible evening.

I'm glad I stuck it out. It turned out that the soloists were uniformly excellent, that the chorus, in the main, was far better than it is capable of being and that the orchestra, except for two obvious miscues, was also good.

HARRY TOMLINSON did what I felt was a good piece of work in fusing the combined artistry of soloists, chorus and orchestra into a valid musical experience.

And with only a little luck and some additional cooperation, it might have been great.

The masterpiece begins with a plea — first orchestrally, then by the soloists and finally by the chorus — for mercy, for rest — for requiem. In the Music Society presentation the impact of this softly-stated entreaty was almost too beautifully done.

THEN COMES THE Dies Irae. Four chords driven home with startling force, with hammering precision, with vital rhythm by the orchestra precede the cries of the chorus.

Although tympani were within 100 yards of the Palm Springs High School auditorium Sunday night, a policy edict prevented the Music Society from using them. Even without the drum, the effect was staggering.

Three phases of the Dies Irae stood out. The Recordare Jesu, with soprano Phyllis Bedford and mezzo Dorothy Hawk, continuing the appeal for mercy begun in the Salva me phase of the Rex tremendae majestatis, was superb.

Tenor Robert Thomas, in the calmest discourse of the entire effort, sang the Ingemisco with a tranquil beauty of voice that alone would have distinguished him for the evening. And William Dungenaux, whose bass voice makes up in tonal beauty what it lacks in depth, sang the Confutatis maledicti with a conception of the underlying terror it contains.

AFTER INTERMISSION, the orchestra opened the Offertorium (Domine Jesu) with an ungodly series of exchanges principally in the cellos but recovered immediately and had only scant difficulty with this movement.

A double fugue for the chorus comprised the Sanctus with the chorus meeting the strangely-written Benedictus head on and delivering it beautifully. Ending with a series of hossanas, the movement was quickly following by another duet between Miss Bedford and Miss Hawk. The chorus joined them, repeating the chant.

In Lux aeterna, Miss Hawk superbly outdid herself through the Et lux perpetua, with her voice soaring out of the dirge and into the heavens.

IN THE LIBERA ME, the chorus returned again to that initial theme, the theme of the Dies Irae. The conflict, the fear, the terror was recaptured and Miss Bedford's soprano voice emerged above that sound with an expression of hope.

I admit I didn't believe the Music Society could venture into the no-mans-land of this magnificent work and escape unscathed.

They escaped not only unscathed but covered with a sort of glory. I was terribly wrong in my preconception and I should like to apologize to the Requiem performers for the thoughts I held. I am pleased to report that I was badly wrong.

Safety's a Good Game
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A game which is a cross between Bingo and safety is helping to cut industrial accidents at a large manufacturing plant here.

The game is called SAFGO. Each month every person in the B. F. Goodrich Co. plant issued a SAFGO card. There are 24 numbers on each card, and every day one number is drawn. The first employee whose numbers chosen in the drawing form a green cross representing safety wins a $100 U.S. Savings bond — unless he has had an injury during the month which resulted in loss of time.

"Interest in the game is mounting," said J. M. Robbins, plant manager. "We expect this interest and the safety ideas printed on the SAFGO card to help measurably in keeping accidents from happening at our plant."

City to Receive $46,284 from License Fees

Palm Springs is due to receive $46,284 in the state motor vehicle fee apportionment, under its newest population figure of 12,671.

The new population figure was set after the annexation of three square miles to the city.

Apportionment of $46,284 represents only the first payment of an estimated total of $65,204 expected this year. The second payment will be made in June.

The county of Riverside will receive a total of $610,721 with its population of 170,046 inhabitants.

Other desert communities receiving an apportionment of the license fee include Indio with a population of 9,100 — $33,240; and Blythe with a population of 5,065 — $18,501.

According to the report, issued by Alan Cranston, state controller, 354 California cities will receive a total of $38,020,478 and the 58 counties of the state will receive the same total.

William E. Metzger established the first independent automobile dealership in the U.S. Today there are approximately 40,000 dealerships in the U.S.

City to Reject Edict of Board

Councilman Leonard Wolf, Jr., told the City Council this week that Palm Springs should not share in the Bradley-Burns Sales and Use Tax program because "even the State Board of Equalization said it was not equitable."

Wolf, who returned from Riverside only minutes before the council conference meeting at Chi Chi, reported that Palm Springs "generosity" cost more than $10,000 a year. "If we pay the full amount that the Board of Supervisors wants — 10 per cent — it would cost the city some $25,000."

THE CITY COUNCIL, now giving five per cent, seems to be strongly in favor of dropping out of the sales tax program if an agreement cannot be reached.

In Riverside Monday, a lengthy discussion of the Bradley-Burns sales tax program was held before the Board of Supervisors, with representatives of Riverside County cities attempting to get supervisory approval of allocating only 5 per cent of the collections within their city limits to the county.

THE SUPERVISORS, however, did not sway, and by a vote of 3 to 2 said they would accept nothing less than the ten per cent or discontinue the program on June 30.

Corona's Councilman Francis Stearns said the board's action spells an end to the solution to the problem offered by the county's League of Cities, since withdrawal of any one city automatically stops the program under the sales tax act. He said Palm Springs will unquestionably refuse to give more than five per cent, and only the board's approval of the agreement of other cities to go along on that basis can save the program.

ALL CITIES EXCEPT Palm Springs are now donating ten per cent, and the Board of Supervisors appears to be adamant in its announced intent to disapprove anything other than a uniform donation with all cities making the same percentage allocation, and to approve nothing less than ten per cent.

Riverside Councilman John Bergin, spokesman for the cities, warned that state legislation may be enacted which would set a definite percentage for all cities, a percentage which might be less than the five per cent offered by Riverside County cities.

VOTING AGAINST the Jones motion were Supervisor George Berkley and Supervisor Paul Anderson. Berkley remarked that he approved the ten per cent requirement for all cities but Palm Springs, but felt that Palm Springs would stand to lose money by such requirement and should be allowed to continue with its present five per cent allocation. Anderson agreed with Berkley.

Discontinuance of the Bradley-Burns program will mean that there will not be any sales tax in the unincorporated areas. The cities are empowered to, and undoubtedly will, enact their own sales tax law, making their own collections. Collection by the state under the Bradley-Burns act has resulted in a marked increase of revenue for most of the county's 13 cities.

The county's only way to obtain the revenue it will lose by discontinuance of the sales tax, is by increasing by 15 cents the tax rate already imposed on property owners.

MIDNIGHT RAID

throughout the county, sheriff's deputies took them to Riverside where special interrogation teams were set up to question the suspects.

State agents were quoted as saying that the arrests were not of a ring, but individual "pushers." Some were thought to "have worked in pairs."

MOST SPECTACULAR arrest was made in Palm Springs when Tony Marquez was taken into custody and officers reported the finding of marijuana growing in a planter in the home — plus marijuana seed scattered throughout the bedroom. Marquez was reported as telling officers that they had "hit too soon. If you had hit tomorrow, I'd have had a lot more."

Sheriff Joe Rice reported that the narcotic situation was one which the sheriff's office — in cooperation with local and state authorities — is striving to control. He said this was the first of several "roundups" with still more arrests to be made.

Chief of Police August G. Kettmann said however that this raid had brought in local known narcotic suspects and "cleaned up the resort community."

LOCAL RAIDS were made by two state narcotic agents, who will remain unidentified; three county deputy sheriffs, Von Hoffman, Ralph Woodworth and Canova; and nine Palm Springs police officers, Sgt. Vogelar, Lt. Dale Thompson, Capt. Orest Johnson, Sgt. T. M. Aitken, and officers Nick Maff, Ray Youngberg, Bob Davis, Robert Sandeffer and Carl Hulslander.

The men were briefed for an hour prior to the raids, and then divided into teams of two to make the arrests.

Grace Jablow said that Welfare and Friendly Aid services—which is scheduled to receive $9,350 from the United Fund drive — would be seriously impaired.

The services include a dental clinic, emergency medical help, school lunches for children in need of them, a well-baby clinic, layettes for needy expectant mothers, pre-natal clinic, a welfare emergency grocery, clothing aid and transportation help.

SHE SAID THE Welfare and Friendly Aid could not conceive "the consequences of a further budget cut — it has already cut emergency aid because of the dark United Fund picture."

Keith Herbert, president of the United Fund here, said that the one-shot campaign had been conceived to halt the multitude of charity drives. The United Fund serves the lower desert area including Desert Hot Springs, Tramview, Rancho Mirage, Garnet, Cathedral City, North Palm Springs, Thousand Palms and Palm Springs.

ORTEGA CLAIMS GROUP GREATEST

By GEORGE LAINE

It hasn't been too many years that Frankie Ortega has been giving his real age to club owners when he's hired out to play piano for them.

"I started real young," said Frankie this week, between sets at the Saints and Sinners Room of the La Paz Hotel. "I guess I was about 15 or 16 when I started ed."

Ortega didn't spend much time picking up the tricks of the trade. He worked a while with Anson Weeks, gigged around with Jack Denny, then traded the band business for a single and finally formed his first trio in 1947. He was 17 years old then.

"I WORKED A ROOM in San Francisco with the first group and got education," Frankie smiled. "This group here," he gestured to the bandstand where drummer Walt Sage and bassist Bert Hanson were getting ready for the next segment — "is the result of all my mistakes. This bunch is great."

A few minutes later, Ortega and the other two were proving that statement.

For Saints and Sinners dancers, they romped through a medley that included "You Stepped Out Of A Dream," "Moonlight in Vermont" and "What Is There To Say" before turning to Latin tempo for "La Virgen de la Macarena" and a twin — tempo "Tenderly" that started as a ballad wound up a cha-cha.

GOOD NATURED KIDDING is one of the rules of any Ortega tour. The wise-cracking threesome just concluded a packed-house engagement that kept them in New York's flashy Embers for four weeks. The same banner exists here.

"Play 'Volare,' will ya," asked one ringler.

"We don't play those foreign things," countered Frankie.

"Do something funny," pleaded another patron.

"It's tough to be in Palm Springs."

AIR FORCE ASKS CANDIDATES FOR AF NAVIGATORS

SPECIAL MATERIAL abounds in the Ortega book. He has authored a father-like book (guilted by strumming the piano's strings) that sets off such things as "Mood Indigo" and "Laura" with a delicate emphasis.

Frankie doesn't have a corner on the versatility department. Sage, a fine trap drummer, moves onto timbales and associated other Latin percussion instruments with almost equal ability and, further, even manages to master 80 different striking special effects.

And Hanson, one of the few remaining members of the vanishing group of bassists who are as fond of bowed bass as they are of plucked bass, proved his abilities over and over with such things as "September Song" and "Swingin' On A Star."

The latter is actually a showcase for Ortega's pianistic talents.

ANCIENT INDIAN POTTERY is packed for a trip to the Palm Springs Desert Museum by motion picture producer Sol Lesser and his grandson, Stephen. Lesser secured the time-worn articles from an Indian who uncovered them in an ancient cave. Lesser turned the pottery over to the Palm Springs Museum for study by desert area children.

MUSEUM GIVEN INDIAN TREASURE

Two ancient clay pots, recovered from the cavern tomb of their long-dead owners, have found a new and permanent resting spot in the Palm Springs Desert Museum.

The pots, so ancient that they may pre-date the American Indians, were presented to the museum by motion picture producer Sol Lesser, long-time Village resident.

Skeletons lay tumbled across each other and each skull showed the marks of a lethal blow, Young recounted.

THE INDIAN SAID the pots he recovered were buried in the sand that blanketed the cave. Unable to lead a horse across the rugged desert trails, Young packed the pots out himself.

Lesser arranged to meet Young after he read of the discovery and then secured the pottery for presentation to the museum here so the "children of man can better follow the trail of ancient man."

The Desert Sun is an independent newspaper dedicated to truth accuracy and impartiality in the news; to the progress of the desert region; to the support of that which it believes to be right and to the defeat of that which it believes to be wrong.

The Third Thing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Well, April showers bring May flowers, and already there are signs that the squalls of 1959 are intended to influence the upsurge of the 1960 elections.

By far the most pre-seasonal of the squalls are those which blow up from a political party which won't appear on the ballots but which does dominate a slate of candidates and does elect a host of public officers.

The Laborite party has already issued a proscription list of 12 U.S. Senators, both Democrats and Republicans, whose terms expire at the end of the 86th Congress.

REPUBLICANS LISTED for political assassination by the Laborite party are Senators Alott (Col.), Bridges (N.H.), Curtis (Neb.), Dworshak (Idaho), Martin (Iowa), Mundt (S.D.), Saltonstall (Mass.), Schaeppi (Kans.). These men are not hobos or upstarts. Three of the eight have been State Governors, five have won reelection in the past to their Senate seats, three have held top posts in their party.

Styles Bridges is the senior Republican of the Senate, and Saltonstall began his lifetime of public service as long ago as 1920 when elected an alderman of Newton, Mass.

THE DEMOCRATS on the AFL-CIO blacklist, are less numerous but hardly less distinguished. Allen Frear of Delaware and Willis Robertson of Virginia are not national figures, but are Senators' Senators, each serving his third term. John McClellan of Arkansas, a winner of this year's Good Government Society award, is internationally known for his hard work as committee chairman in many an investigation and, above all, for his integrity as a statesman.

Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a former Governor, twice chosen as Senator, the 1948 presidential nominee of the States' Rights ticket, is the final name on the purge list.

THE BLACKHAND notes which the Laborite party passes around many months in advance of election day are no vacant threat. Last year it was Labor which ended the careers of William Knowland, the Minority Senate Leader, and John Bricker, who's the G.O.P.'s candidate for Vice President. If the 1958 average prevails in 1960, no more than 3 of these 12 men, assuming they all run, will be returned.

Although such fatal facts are well known to politicians and news men, the general public seems hardly aware of the Laborite destructive power until it strikes. And the marked men, with an exception to be noted, tend to behave like persons caught in a plague. They don't mention the dread killer which silently stalks their trails.

SENATOR THURMOND, an exception to the rule, recently took public notice of the Laborite threat. In a Congressional recess speech at Camden, S.C., Thurmond observed that two Labor Union officers at a Labor Council meeting had called for his removal.

One of the denouncers of Thurmond is Sinway Young, a South Carolinian, being chairman of the Labor Council of that State and within his province to oppose anybody he chooses. But the other early bird campaigner against Thurmond is Joseph D. Keenan, general Secretary-Treasurer of an International Union, the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Imagine the howls of indignation if an international industrialist should dare to reac some well-established American out of public office.

STROM THURMOND, an articulate spokesman in his own behalf, replied to the Keenan attack by chapter and verse. The Senator said that the Laborite party opposed him on a number of Federal programs — with each of which the individual's rights diminish materially and the take-home pay of all taxpayers goes down.

This is a pretty good cover-all description of the Laborite party platform. The AFL-CIO is almost automatically in favor of schemes which collectivize the national into welfare cells and which advance the paternalism of Big Brother. Practically all of the big spending programs on the Laborite agenda have been defeated in the past, sometimes by Congressional rejection, sometimes by Presidential veto. But each year, these bills come closer to becoming laws, and the reason is now before us.

Year by year, the Laborite party uses the well-tested strategy of divide-and-conquer. A good Democrat or Republican is rubbed out, and an obedient Laborite slips in under the label of one of the major parties. Before we know it—if we don't watch out—this enterprising "third party" will own the other two. And the American nation, which is not Socialist or Laborite, will wonder what happened, anyhow. —Holmes Alexander

The Man to Succeed Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In all probability the man who will succeed Secretary of State Dulles will be Acting Secretary Christian Archibald Hertler. If, for reasons of ill health he is unable to accept the post, the appointment in all probability will go to Undersecretary Clarence Douglas Dillon.

Both Mr. Hertler and Mr. Dillon were born abroad . . . Mr. Hertler in Paris 63 years ago . . . and Mr. Dillon in Geneva 50 years ago. Both were graduated from Harvard University with high scholastic honors. Both are Republicans of the Eastern Internationalist group. Both support Secretary Dulles to the hilt.

CHRISTIAN HERTLER is more experienced in diplomacy than "Douglas" Dillon, as the press referred to Mr. Dillon in Paris where he was our ambassador from 1953 to 1957.

Hertler entered our diplomatic corps in his early twenties as an attaché in the U.S. Embassy in Berlin. He left Germany shortly before the war in 1916 to return to the U.S., but was rejected for military service because his height (6 ft, 6 1/2 in.) was over the limit.

HE REMAINED in the State Department, serving on the prisoner of war commission and later as an aide — along with John Foster Dulles — to President Wilson at Versailles in 1919. It was at Versailles that the first met Secretary Dulles, who as a young man was also launching a career which was to lead him to his present high post.

Christian Hertler was associated with Herbert Hoover in European relief for several years and later became assistant secretary of commerce when Mr. Hoover was appointed secretary. He retired from commerce after a few years to accept an appointment at Harvard as a professor in international affairs.

IN 1931 he entered Massachusetts politics and was elected to the state house of representatives, where he remained for 11 years. In 1942 he was elected to Congress and joined forces with another young freshman, Richard Nixon from California.

They both served on the committee of European aid and traveled extensively in Europe, laying the foundations for the Marshall plan. In 1952 Mr. Hertler was elected governor of Massachusetts for the first of two terms.

HE CAME TO Washington in 1957 as undersecretary of state, with the understanding that he would succeed Secretary Dulles. Unfortunately, he is plagued with advanced arthritis now and cannot walk without crutches. But for this serious affliction, Mr. Hertler is certainly well qualified for the post.

Clarence Douglas Dillon, mentioned as second choice to succeed Secretary Dulles, graduated from Harvard in 1931 and immediately entered his father's banking firm, Dillon, Reed & Co. in New York.

He actively campaigned—along with Dulles and Hertler — in the presidential race in behalf of Thomas E. Dewey. He was an alternate delegate-at-large to the 1952 Republican convention which nominated Dwight Eisenhower.

WE FIRST MET Mr. Dulles while he was serving as U.S. ambassador to France in 1953 where he played a prominent role in bringing Germany into the western alliance. He was transferred to the State Department in 1957 as advisor to Secretary Dulles on U.S. foreign economic policy.

While prominent on the Dulles staff, Mr. Dillon in our opinion has neither the experience nor the qualifications of Christian Hertler for the top post in the Department of State.

WE HAVE MADE some strides in training our future diplomats in various colleges and through limited State Department train-

Now for a Machine to Get Rid of It

This Side of The Sun

By Phat

Mid-April today,
'Leven days to go
Before our clocks
Are an hour slow.

Just a reminder. A week from next Sunday, at 1 a.m., time does a quicky. At 1 a.m. Sunday, April 26, all of a sudden it's 2 a.m.

THE REASON I am bringing this up today is that maybe all of you could profit by my own system of how to meet daylight time, head-on, without the least disturbance of routine procedure.

Tomorrow it will be just ten days before we get rid of an hour. There are 60 minutes in an hour. Ten goes into 60 six times. Cinch.

STARTING TOMORROW morning I shall arise six minutes earlier.

Friday, the same, Saturday, ditto, Sunday and so on.

By the morning of April 26, I'll be arising an hour earlier than today.

Which will put me cheek and jowl with Daylight Time.

But I won't like it.

MY LITTLE BOOK which keeps me informed on what weeks we are celebrating this week, tells me that this is Pan-American Week, National Library Week, National Garden Week, National Sunday School Week and American Comedy Week.

Well, Pan American Week is being observed in those countries which accept our aid freely and then pack.

WE OBVIOUSLY need trained officers who can set up the best strategy to defend us when war starts . . . more, more important, we need trained diplomats capable of setting up the strategy which may prevent war in the first place through capable diplomats.

It is ironic that in so many instances only wealthy Americans are appointed to top diplomatic posts without previous experience, as in the case of ambassadors, because of the expense involved in running a major U.S. embassy.

HE ACTIVELY campaigned—along with Dulles and Hertler — in the presidential race in behalf of Thomas E. Dewey. He was an alternate delegate-at-large to the 1952 Republican convention which nominated Dwight Eisenhower.

IT IS INCONCEIVABLE to this reporter that this nation, which does not seem able to afford a few million dollars to finance our own embassies, without requiring rich ambassadors to dig into their own pockets to pay U.S. embassy bills.

Our allies accept our billions and use some of the money to train their diplomats and finance their embassies, while we continue to fill important diplomatic posts, in most cases, on the basis of wealth, or on the basis of a contribution to a Republican or Democrat political party.

We repeat, it is a dangerous practice and a national disgrace for political parties and their spokesmen to continue, in this atomic age, to use diplomatic appointments as political plums.

STAN DELAPLANE'S

Postcard

The wild iris blooming on the hillside and daylight saving is about to save a little daylight.

All of which brings to a reasonable mind: What is happening to Love?

Love does not bloom by saying the blooming daylight mates. Think that over. What daylight saving is give you more time to play tennis. It is a poor substitute.

BESIDES A LACK of daylight saving, street lamps were not as bright as they are nowadays. The street lamps were only on the corners and had been recently converted from gas light. (A lot of romance went out when they no longer needed a man who went around and lit the lamps.)

The young couple sat on the porch and swung in the creaky swing.

They held little thin smoking sticks of Chinese punk. It kept off the mosquitoes.

THE YOUNG MAN wore white pants — ice cream pants we called them. And if we saw a young man going down the street with them, we yelled:

"Hey, Willie off the pickle boat!"

After you went to bed, you could hear the giggling down on the porch and smell the Chinese punk.

About 10 o'clock, the mother called through the screen window.

The young man would then rise and you could hear him clickety-clack down the dark block toward the lamp on the street corner. The door slammed downstairs and the lock clicked.

Up in the bedroom, my friend said:

"Ah, fair lady. Allow me to ask you fair hand in marriage."

Then I pretended to faint. And the mother called upstairs: "You boys go to sleep."

We woke up at 6 in the morning. And, boy, did we save daylight!

When we came in reluctantly from the street, we made quite a show on the porch.

WE PRETENDED to be fainting—that was our idea of romance. I would seize my friend's hand and pretend to kiss it.

"Ah, fair lady. Allow me to kiss your hand."

Then he would pretend to faint.

LOS ANGELES — Former President Truman, saying Meade Alcorn resigned as Republican Party national chairman because he was "scared to death" of a Democratic victory in 1960:

"He just wanted to get out of the way."

Talkathon On A Glamour

A HALF HOURS! Mother, were you and Daddy Pioneers? That's what Slusher said to us once."

MORAL: Planes and autos run out of gas, women don't.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dolores Gray had a "violent row" with Producer Michael Kidd in the "Destry" show in Boston—but she denies rumors she slapped him and got belted back. "Only words," she insists. "I didn't want to do something. No worse than any other tryout. It's all patched up now. If I decide to belt anybody, I'll let you know that to Jack Paar."

These were cross-country commuters — so blasé they wouldn't look out a plane window at the Grand Canyon because they've already seen it. But this was American Airlines' 707 Jet that cuts a continent down to 4½ hours.

Greg Bautzer, MCA Prez Lew Wasserman, George Murphy, Publ. Expert Bernie Kamber stepped along briskly. A cheer rose from spectators as passengers filed into the waiting room.

"Is that for Lucille or Peggy?" I asked.

It was for a bride and bridegroom.

I had seat 7B — right in front of the Beautiful Wife.

"I see you two are superstitious and don't fly together," Peggy Cass said.

Suddenly we felt ourselves being lifted — we were off just before 3 A.M.

I made notes: About lunching with Groucho Marx who discussed his book, "Groucho and Me."

About Ingred Bergman, nice as always, saying she'd see us in N.Y. About looking at Martha Hyers' paintings (a Renoir, a Gauguin and Utrillo) at her home in the Hollywood Hills.

"I wanted to paint or act as a little girl in Texas and decided to act because they don't applaud painters till they're dead," she said.

Back of me the B.W. was out-talking Peggy Cass: telling the young mother of a year-old son all she knew about child-rearing. I fell asleep.

When we came down at Idlewild into a beautiful N.Y. morning, at well before 7 A.M., I heard a familiar voice: my wife's. She had talked the night into day.

"Fastest flight I was ever on," she war marvelling, "but some da' the baby's mother will say 'When you were a baby you flew to N.Y. once and do you know how long it took FOUR AND A HALF-HOURS'?"

"And he will say, 'FOUR AND a half seven, weighs 135 pounds.'

Bride-to-Be Surprised at Shower

A surprise shower for Eunice Crooke followed the regular meeting of Sigma Gamma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the home of Marge Thatcher on 2787 Via Encelia. Gifts for the kitchen ranged from the practical to the humorous, including a Palm Springs hat decorated with clothes pins, hot pads, and assorted kitchen gadgets complete with a balloon face with a mop for curly hair. Miss Crooke is soon to be wed to Forrest Menzing of Woodland Hills. A white cake topped by a bride and groom and a carousel ice cream and coffee were served by the hostess.

During the business meeting, member-at-large Penny Bullock was introduced as a guest; plans were made for the new rushes Sally Givens, Helen Goudry and Eleanor Lenox, to receive their pledge ritual at the next meeting on April 21; and a discussion was held as to the chapter's participation in the Founder's Day Dinner at La Quinta Desert Club on April 28.

The cultural program for the evening was devoted to "Architecture" and presented by Leila Waller, Jane Dill and Marilyn Mason. Architecture through the ages, with examples from the pyramids to the United Nations Building, was discussed and displayed by beautifully illustrated books on churches, temples, castles and homes. In her talk, Jane Dill pointed out that all architecture stems from the basic styles of Romanesque and Gothic, and Marilyn Mason vividly illustrated that in America, we constantly reach back to the past for our varied styles of architecture because we feel secure in the familiar.

Baby Shower At No-Hostess Luncheon

A Sunday afternoon swim party at the Ranch Club was enjoyed by Dale Fritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Fritz of 888 Mel Avenue, and several of his playmates, when he celebrated his tenth birthday.

Dinner was served poolside in the early evening, along with birthday cake and ice cream. While Dale opened his many birthday gifts.

Enjoying this real fun party were Tim Countis, Dennis Judd, George Valeur, Chris Morris, Terry Noonan, Mark Mosley, John Hendershot, Bobby Yarss and Billie Reynolds.

Mrs. Fritz supervised the party with the assistance of Bonnie Heisser.

Style Show Luncheon on May 27th

Plans for a fashion show luncheon to be held at the Tennis Club on May 7, were announced by the president, Mrs. Jack Copass, when the Palm Springs Auxiliary of the Angel View Crippled Children's Foundation held its regular meeting at the Tennis Club this past week. The fashion show luncheon will be the final activity of a very busy first season for the Auxiliary, which will dispense with meetings during the summer months.

The luncheon will be open to the public and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Elizabeth Givens, Helen Goudry and Eleanor Lenox, to receive their pledge ritual at the next meeting on April 21; and a discussion was held as to the chapter's participation in the Founder's Day Dinner at La Quinta Desert Club on April 28.

Seven lifetime members were announced, and many new regular members, including two in their eighties, Mrs. Minnie Grider of Holtville, mother of Mrs. Bruno DiGrandi, 1st vice president; and Mrs. Margaret J. Monte of Los Angeles, mother of Mrs. Copass. Zaddie Bunker, honorary counselor, was introduced.

Reports on the "Be An Angel" handbags and hats project, the soft drink stands along the Desert Circus parade route, sales of decorated Easter Eggs, and Pink Carnation sales, were made at the meeting.

INDIAN WIDENING TO BE DISCUSSED

A special meeting between the City Council, members of the city administration and developers of the Palm Springs Spa will be held next Tuesday at the Huddle-Springs restaurant to discuss the widening of Indian Avenue and the dedication of part of Tabiquiz Drive near the bath house.

The council asked for the meeting after it had a request from Sam Barwick, Spa Project Manager for the city, to spend $6,000 for engineering work on Indian Avenue in setting back the curb in front of the mineral bath site.

BANOWITZ APPEARED before the council a month ago to ask the city to share the cost of fixing

Your Car And The Law

PROFESSIONAL DRIVER. The Vehicle Code sets on a violation point count to guide the Department of Motor Vehicles in its discretionary actions against unscrupulous and irresponsible drivers.

The Code says: "Any person whose driving record shows a violation point count of four or more points in 24 months or eight or more points in 36 months, shall be prima facie presumed to be a negligent operator of a motor vehicle."

SOME VIOLATIONS count two points, others one point for each conviction. A person convicted of drunken driving while his license is suspended or revoked, hit and run, failure to report or stop and give aid in accidents involving injury or death, drunk driving and reckless driving.

Any combination of violations, therefore, having a total of four points could cause a driver to lose his license. This driver is the person who operates his car for pleasure, and for incidental purposes such as going to and from work.

BUT THE VEHICLE Code recognizes another kind of driver: The professional or professional operator of a vehicle. The commercial driver, of course, would be the operator of a bus or truck. In other words, the holder of a chauffeur's license.

In its broadest sense, the professional driver could be anyone who uses his car extensively in his business as a traveling salesman, for example. And so the Vehicle Code provides:

"In applying the provisions of this section (relating to a negligent operator) to a driver, the department (of Motor Vehicles) shall give due consideration to the amount of use or mileage traveled in the operation of a motor vehicle."

TEACHER-CITIZEN SYMPOSIUM SET

School district officials to day scheduled a second "teacher-citizen symposium" for Palm Springs
High School April 21.

This symposium will be concerned with the "philosophy behind the teaching of social studies," said Dr. Seamus Nunan, chairman of the high school's social studies department.

THE SYMPOSIUM is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the high school music room and all interested persons are invited to attend, Dr. Nunan said.
Teachers who will discuss their viewpoints of the various social studies are Robert Gilmore, United States history; Miss Letha Cote, California government and world history; Ray Beeley, United States history; Chester McCarthy, civics and senior problems, and William Fahrner, civics and United States history.

FOLLOWING THE teacher discussions, citizens attending the symposium may submit questions to the teachers and the chairman.
"We hope this presentation and exchange of viewpoints will create a better understanding of the role played by this school in advancing the goals of our society," Dr.
Nunan said.

Junior High Choral Singers Win Top Awards Attainable

Choral singers from Nellie N.
Coffman Junior High School returned to Palm Springs this week with "the highest awards attainable" from the annual Pomona College Solo and Ensemble Festival.

It was the second consecutive year that the junior high Choral Group, directed by Hugh Given, emerged from the Pomona festival with superior ratings, according to Principal Warren Linville.

THE NELLIE Coffman singers were among 119 high school entrants in last Friday's festival.

The school's Madrigal Singers were given maximum ratings by a panel of judges and were chosen to appear at the festival's evening concert because of their outstanding performance during the judging period, Linville said.

Judges particularly cited the junior high singers for their "delightful quality of tone" and their "artistic singing."

PALM SPRINGS students who participated in the festival were Cyli Teitelbaum, Ourdoll Rackov,
Lynne Hammerschlag, Cathy Given,
Roberta Sherrill, Judy Colette, Bob
Franks, Richard Morse, Gary Marx,
Merle Moore, Eric Teitel-baum and Gary Beebe.

Principal Linville said the group will be heard at the school's spring concert of instrumental and choral music scheduled for the evening of April 29 at the high school auditorium.

Student Courts To Be Subject Of May 2 Meet

A panel of students, advisors and a law enforcement officer will discuss student courts and youth's role in enforcing school policies when the Riverside County Chapter of the California Association of Student Councils meets here on May 2.

Chapter President Bob Bigelow of Palm Springs High School said that the panel would tackle the subject in a morning discussion that begins shortly after 9 a.m.

A joint luncheon for the young leaders is planned for noon with a business session—including election of 1959-60 officers—slated for the afternoon phase of the program.

Nuclear Test Ban Progress Told

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States, Britain and Russia today agreed on a minor point for a nuclear test ban treaty but did not discuss the new western compromise proposals to end underwater and lower atmosphere explosions.

The article adopted concerned procedures for amending the treaty. Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said the agreement was "a step forward."

Also discussed today was a British version of a preamble for the treaty. Both the preamble and the amendment article were discussed before the Easter recess.

There was no further Soviet reaction to American and British willingness to accept a half-a-loaf limited atomic test ban.

Killer of Biggest Animal Ever Slain by Man Claims Camera Shooting Is Most Dangerous

Visited At Odlum Ranch

By AL LE ANCE
To Jose Fenykovi, the African hunter who bagged the biggest animal ever killed by modern man, hunting is a thinking man's business and a businessman's sport.

"Hunting is my hobby," said Fenykovi, a man who holds at least three of the world's African big game records, "but engineering is my business."

FENYKOVI, A NATIVE of Hungary, operates a "first-rank" engineering firm in Madrid. But he's known as one of the world's foremost hunters of really big game.

In 1956, Fenykovi marked his 65th birthday by killing the biggest elephant living on the earth, a 25,000 pound monster that "feared no one but man."

This taxidermist's treasure now stands in the main rotunda of the Smithsonian Institute, his trunk bound in a silent trumpet to thousands of museum visitors.

"HE WAS A REAL monster," said Fenykovi, spreading his arms as though to measure the gross bulk of a ponderous beast towering 13 feet, two inches from his massive shoulders to his monstrous feet.

"I knew he was the biggest when I first saw his unbelievably big track," Fenykovi mused, drawing deeply on one of his long Cuban cigars, "and I knew I must follow his tracks until I found him."

Fenykovi, whose dogged persistence also brought him the hides of the world's biggest lion and rhinoceros, trailed his elephant through the unexplored regions of the Angola jungles.

HE MAINTAINS a 1,000-acre ranch in Angola, a Portuguese colony on the Atlantic Coast of Africa, which he visits at least four months every fall—"when it is spring in Africa."

"But my ranch is nothing like this," he said, waving his arm to indicate the lush greenery of the Cochrane-Odlum Ranch near Indio.

Fenykovi and his wife are house-guests of famed avitrix Jacqueline Cochran Odlum, whom he met in Spain last year. It is the hunter's first visit to this country in 32 years.

FENYKOVI, WHO builds Spanish air bases for the United States, is enjoying the "magnificence you have drawn from the desert," but his idyl in the sun here is an unusual break from his traditional "vacation" schedule.

Vacation time for Fenykovi, a remarkably calm and always genial citizen who looks more like 55 than 68, means jaunt to Angola and the scent of big game waiting through the brush.

"I think every man should break away from the routine that grinds down his body and brain," he explained, "or else he will grow old and weak."

FENYKOVI FEELS that a man is made for action, "not to sit down and be quiet."

"Life in the bush is my way of charging my batteries," he said, chuckling, "and I am much better at 68 than my friends — I can still walk to Palm Springs from Indio, if there is an elephant ahead."

Always an individualist, Fenykovi blazes his own trails. He dislikes "packaged" African safaris.

HUNTER JOSE FENYKOVI jubilantly poses atop the monstrous carcass of the 25,000 pound elephant he shot in the African jungles two years ago. Sixteen bullets from an elephant gun downed the mighty beast—the largest animal ever killed by modern man. Taxidermists at the Smithsonian Institute worked two years to mount Fenykovi's kill in the main rotunda of the institute in Washington, D. C. (Desert Sun Photo) which, he claims, are for men to bear boys, for from $3,000 who have but one chance in a life-time to realize their boyhood dreams."

"EVERY BOY DREAMS of hunting," he said. "It was my dream too."

Fenykovi, the son of a Hungarian educator, received his first gun, a pellet rifle, at the age of nine. His first "game" was a sparrow, "but every boy shoots sparrows."

Later, in Spain, Fenykovi hunted all the domestic game available. He realized his dream of hunting African big game—"the only really big game"—only 10 years ago. He was always "tied to my job."

"I am not a rich man," he pointed out, "but I cut myself loose now to hunt the way I like."

MOST TOURIST + HUNTERS travel to Kenya and Tanganyika, where they can "buy" a packaged safari, complete from elephant gun
